DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

This is a Final Office Action in response to Applicant's amendment filed on September 22, 2008.

Claims 1-28 are presented for further examination.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Soon et al (hereinafter, "Soon", U.S. Pub. No. 2004/0001443) in view of Parker (U.S. Pat. No. 5,822,520).

As per claims 1, 8, 15, and 22, Soon discloses a method, apparatus and computer readable medium for testing a network protocol comprising:

- executing communication between a plurality of devices using said network protocol (paragraphs 0020 and 0031); and
- performing said modification on said one of said plurality of protocols in said protocol stack (paragraphs 0020 and 0031).

However, Soon does not explicitly disclose:

- receiving a command comprising code to modify one of a plurality of protocols in a protocol stack of said network protocol.

Parker discloses a method and apparatus for building network test packets comprising:

- receiving a command comprising code to modify one of a plurality of protocols in a protocol stack of said network protocol (abstract, col. 2, lines 46-65, col. 3, lines 9-25, col. 7, lines 45-67 and col. 8, lines 1-45).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Soon by implementing or incorporating protocol-specific commands and generating test packets using a packet shell generation that issues commands to a generic common language interface for the purpose of creating, modifying, developing and testing interactively computer network protocol stacks.

As per claims 2, 9, 16 and 23, Soon discloses:

- wherein said command is received in interpreted code (paragraphs 0031 and 0032).

As per claims 3, 10, 17 and 24, Soon further discloses:

- determining said one of said plurality of protocols in said stack to modify responsive to receiving said command (paragraphs 0033-0035).

As per claims 4, 11, 18 and 25, Soon further discloses:

- determining whether said command is adding a message to said one of said plurality of protocols (paragraphs 0023 and 0032-0033); and
- adding said message to said one of said plurality of protocols (paragraphs 0023 and 0032-0033).

As per claims 5, 12, 19 and 26, Soon further discloses:

- determining whether said command is to remove a message from said one of said plurality of protocols (paragraphs 0023 and 0032-0033); and
- removing said message from said protocol (paragraphs 0023 and 0032-0033).

As per claims 6, 13, 20 and 27, Soon further discloses:

- determining whether said command is to modify an existing message in said one of said plurality of protocols (paragraphs 0023 and 0032-0033);
- removing said existing message from said one of said plurality of protocols (paragraphs 0023 and 0032-0033); and
- adding a new message to said one of said plurality of protocols including said existing message with modifications in said command (paragraphs 0023 and 0032-0033).

As per claims 7, 14, 21 and 28, Soon further discloses:

- determining whether said command is to modify a state machine of said protocol (paragraphs 0018, 0036, and 0044-0045); and
- modifying said state machine of said one of said plurality of protocols responsive to said command (paragraphs 0018, 0036, and 0044-0045).

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed September 22, 2008 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

The Office notes the following arguments:

- Soon does not mention, suggest, or teach compiled or interpreted code according to claims 2, 9, 16 and 23.
- Soon does not mention, suggest, or teach modifying the state machine according to claims 7, 14, 21 and 28.

In response to:

a. Applicant argues that Soon does not mention, suggest, or teach compiled or interpreted code.

Soon teaches a scripting language for access to and control of all functions of the test environment. Therefore, Soon teaches compiled or interpreted code.

b. Applicant argues that Soon does not mention, suggest or teach modifying the state machine.

Soon teaches having access to and control of all functions of the test environment including a protocol state machine. The protocol messages are modified which are a part of the protocol state machine thus Soon teaches modifying the state machine.

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1, 8, 15 and 22 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

U.S. Pat. No. 6,549,882 to Chen et al

6. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
